

Roosevelt Takes NRA Fight To People; President Hints At Revision of Constitution

BELIEVE BOY KIDNAPED BY KARPIS MEN

Volney Davis' Name Pops Into Picture Second Time

By Robert L. Harbison
Associated Press Staff Writer
Tacoma, Wash., May 31.—(P)—The name of Volney Davis, lieutenant of the arch criminal Alvin Karpis, leader of the mob that kidnapped Edward G. Bremer of St. Paul, popped into the picture for a second time in 24 hours.

The seventh day of the disappearance ended at noon, automatically invoking the legal presumption that the 9-year-old lumber heir had been slain or taken across a state boundary line and thus permitting prosecution under the Lindbergh law.

United States Attorney H. H. McPike in San Francisco announced federal "C" men had entered Alcatraz prison there and questioned John Paul Chase, henchman of the late John Dillinger and George (Baby Face) Nelson, in connection with the Bremer case. The result was not disclosed.

Even straggling members of the broken George (Machine Gun) Kelly mob came under the widening investigation when a federal officer here acknowledged he would "like to talk to" Ed Bentz, missing Tacoma associate of Kelly and Albert Bates.

Bentz, who jumped bonds totaling $27,000 after his arrest at Dallas, Tex. in 1932, on bank robbery charges, was a known associate of Harvey Bailey, as well as of Albert Bates and Kelly.

The three were convicted in the $200,000 kidnaping of Charles Bremer, Oklahoma City oil man.

All are serving life prison terms.

About 135 officers, including 15 tight lipped federal agents, remained here while associates of the parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Weyerhaeuser, Jr., presumably continued the forlorn attempt to get in touch with the abductors and hand them $200,000 ransom.

One authoritative source talked of the possibility that a $25,000 reward might be offered soon, primarily in an effort to obtain the release of the boy through hitherto untold channels.

Fred Stojack, a University of Washington student, brought the name of Henchman Davis back into the case again today.

Stojack said he sat in the same bus seat last Friday night with a man who was reading a letter addressed "to Volney Davis." It was postmarked Chicago. The student picked Davis' picture later from a group of photographs.

Three persons connected with the management of two apartment houses here already had identified pictures of Davis as a man who had sought to rent rooms a week ago and had acted suspiciously and finally vanished.

CHINCH BUGS ELIMINATED

Hoopeston, Ill., May 31.—(P)—Heavy rainfall, farmers said today, had almost entirely eliminated the chinch bug menace from this section of Vermillion county, though corn planting has been thrown into confusion by the delay due to wet and soggy fields.

The rainfall has washed away practically all prospects of the early sweet corn crop.

HOLD SUSPECT

Herrin, Ill., May 31.—(P)—Virgil Hale, 40, of West Frankfort, was held in custody here today as a counterfeiter suspect. Officers said Hale had counterfeited half dollars on his person when arrested.

By Richard L. Turner
Associated Press Staff Writer
Washington, May 31.—(P)—In a move that stirred immediate resentment and antagonism in congress, President Roosevelt today sought to appeal the supreme court's NRA decision to the people and hinted of an effort to revise the constitution.

Bitter opposition to a change in the fundamental law was expressed at once only by republican critics of the New Deal but by prominent members of the chief executive's own party. Some rushed to support the president.

At a press conference unique in his administration, the president called upon the nation to decide whether the federal government shall, or shall not have authority to deal with what the administration considers grave economic and social problems of national scope and import.

Mr. Roosevelt challenged directly the court's interpretation of the fundamental law and told a hundred reporters gathered in an atmosphere of tension—that the court had "relegated the nation to the ways of the horse and buggy."

Of the direct results of the high court's decision, the president said the federal alcohol control administration was gone and the agricultural adjustment administration and the securities exchange commission were threatened.

Remedies he would not discuss but promised statements on them in the next five days or so, with one tomorrow believed to deal with the effect of the opinion on existing New Deal agencies.

Congress was quick to have its say on the idea of amending the constitution. Senator Fletcher (D-Ia.) thought there had been enough "tampering with the constitution. Senator Clark (D-Mo.) said he had "assumed the question of federal and state governments" was settled 150 years ago.

Senator Dickinson (R-Ia.) added the biting comment that he favored the "New Deal following the constitution and not the constitution following the New Deal." Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) asserted such tactics were typical of what old world dictators would attempt.

"I don't think President Roosevelt has any thought of emulating Mussolini, or Hitler or Stalin," he said. "But his utterance, as I have heard it, is exactly what these men would say about the American picture, if they were called upon to diagnose it."

Senator Borah (R-Ide.) long an opponent of NRA considered that the court had left congress room enough to accomplish everything that is of national importance, and the court had said this power is full and complete.

Senator Wheeler Says Dieterich Packed Gallery

Declares Illinois Senator Rarely Attended Meetings Of Committee

Washington, May 31.—(P)—Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.), asserted in the senate today that Senator Dieterich (D-Ill.) had filled the gallery with "lobbyists" against the bill to abolish public utility holding companies.

The statement was hotly denied by Dieterich in an exchange across the democratic wing of the senate that broke out as soon as the bill was brought up for re-consideration.

Dieterich had renewed his protest that committee members should have been more time to consider the new draft of the bill rather than be required to vote on it without even a glance at it.

"The senator rarely attended meetings of the committee," retorted Wheeler, chairman of the Interstate Commerce committee which reported out the bill. "And when he came he complained principally about representatives of the departments being present."

Similarly, he said the press had reported the presence on the floor of Ben Cohen, attorney for the PWA who assisted in drafting the bill.

"Did they or anyone else say anything about the lobbyists the senator from Illinois put in the galleries?" the riled Montanan continued.

"I resent that," Dieterich asserted, his face reddening, as he stood to make a denial.

Wheeler was insistent, however, declaring:

"It was called to my attention that he did." He was informed, he said, Dieterich had seated a "Mr. Olliphant" in the gallery.

"I never heard his name," Dieterich retorted. The Montanan said he would "withdraw" the complaint.

GUARD HORSES

Aurora, Ill., May 31.—(P)—Armed with shotguns, William Earhart, horse dealer, and two employees were on guard tonight at the Earhart farm against the possible return of a large dog which last night pulled down one of Earhart's horses, wounding the animal about the head so badly that it was necessary to destroy it.

Chief John Heland of the Aurora police said the dog was probably one of many starving pets owned by families on relief rolls unable to feed them. Heland said there had not been an instance of such a dog attacking a human.

ALLEGED BRAINS OF LUER KIDNAP GANG ARRESTED

Walter Holland Will Be Returned To Alton, Ill.

Alton, Ill., May 31.—(P)—With six convictions—six of them life sentences—already marked off against the 1933 kidnaping of aged August Luer, State's Attorney M. L. Geers moved tonight to bring to trial Walter Holland, alias O'Malley, long ago labeled the "brains" of the brutal abduction.

The arrest of Holland in a Kansas City apartment raid was announced today by department of justice agents, and Geers took immediate steps to return him to the scene of the kidnaping. After communicating with the government men in Kansas City, the prosecutor said Holland probably would be tried the week of June 17.

Deputy sheriffs will leave for the Missouri city tomorrow to claim the long sought prisoner.

He's the one who "snatched me," Luer, 79-year-old banker, said when told of Holland's capture. During the course of the kidnap trial in the fall of 1933 it was brought out that Percy Michael Fitzgerald, Holland and Vivian Chase kidnaped Luer from his home the night of July 10, 1933, after beating Mrs. Luer.

The banker was held in a pit on a nearby farm for five days and finally released without payment of ransom. Prosecutors said the abductors apparently feared for his life.

Fitzgerald, Randall Norvell, chauffeur of the kidnap car, and Mrs. Charles Chessen, alleged "finger" in the abduction, were convicted and given life sentences. All directed the principal blame against the fugitive O'Malley, Mike Mustala, on whose farm Luer was held, received a 25 year sentence, and Christ Nicola Gilcho, who maintained a hideout for the kidnapers at Madison, Ill., and Charles Chessen were sentenced to serve five years each.

Vivian Chase, who gained admission to the Luer home for the kidnapers under a pretext of using the telephone, still is a fugitive with "Blacky" Lloyd Doyle, whose part in the abduction has never been revealed.

With a veiled threat of death increasing their fears, Mr. and Mrs. John P. Weyerhaeuser, Jr., sought frantically to contact kidnapers of their son, George, shown here in a favorite photograph, to pay $200,000 for his release. Police and U. S. agents stood aside as the family negotiated with the gang which seized the lumber king's heir near his Tacoma, Wash., school.

John C. Martin, Former State Treasurer, Named Head State Emergency Relief Commission

$200,000 Ready to Ransom Heir

Chicago, May 31.—(P)—The Illinois Emergency Relief Commission, today elected John C. Martin of Salem as Chairman of the commission, succeeding Robert J. Dunham and at the same meeting approved the allocation of funds totaling $143,735.65 to meet the relief needs during the next month.

The election of Martin to head the commission followed the formal resignation of Dunham, who asked to be relieved of his duties as chairman of the relief body to become head of the Federal Government's Work Relief program in Illinois.

Dunham will continue as a member of the relief commission. Martin, a Salem banker and chairman of the State Tax Commission, was named as a regular member of the relief commission last January by Gov. Henry Horner, to fill a vacancy.

Previously, during his term as State Treasurer, Martin has served as an ex-officio member of the commission.

The commission's allocation of funds today included three estimated as necessary to meet needs of relief clients in June, in addition to amounts needed to repay sums borrowed from "earmarked" funds and used to carry on emergency food distributions in May.

The commission requested Gov. Henry Horner to apply for $13,900,000 in federal emergency relief funds to tide the state over its relief problem until July 1, the difference in the two amounts being that of funds now on hand in various counties.

Normal relief requirements for the month of June were estimated at $12,119,862, a decrease of more than a million dollars from the expenditures of $13,383,116 for April, the last month in which the commission functioned normally.

The approved allocations, subject to availability of funds and to the deduction of May 31 county balances, included $7,949,345 to Cook county, and $5,955,511 to all other counties of the state.

Federal relief administrator Harry L. Hopkins announced in Washington today that six states, including Illinois would receive their allotments as soon as the amount necessary was determined.

Included in the $13,900,000 requested from federal funds was a sum of $2,900,000 to be used in resuming normal relief operations which were halted this month by a temporary shut-off of government money.

The Illinois commission considered in its meeting today a ruling by the states general court, which held that citizens who failed to obtain citizenship were not entitled to public support.

No action was taken on the question beyond requesting a complete copy of the ruling.

A request for the names and addresses of all employees of the I. E. R. C. who were members of social workers' organizations which on May 17 criticized the passage of a three percent sales tax to obtain relief funds and the commission's order that all relief clients be required to reapply for aid was made by the commission before it adjourned.

Total allocations of June relief funds by counties follow:

Adams 141,499; Brown 7,346; Calhoun 5,000; Carroll 8,280; Cass 41,420; Greene 25,000; Jersey 11,000; Morgan 48,120; Pike 23,965; Sangamon 123,786; Schuyler 11,527; Scott 16,142.

Washington, May 31.—(P)—Obviously concerned over the future of AAA Secretary Wallace today announced after a conference with President Roosevelt a search would be made for amendments to the farm adjustment act to carry on the administration's agriculture program.

Despite Mr. Roosevelt's earlier statement that the Supreme Court's NRA decision had raised the question of the AAA's legality, Wallace said the agency would carry on the farm program. Changes were considered certain, however.

Almost simultaneously, members of the Senate agriculture committee agreed informally to strike out of pending AAA amendments provisions relating to licensing authority over marketing agencies which have been requested by Wallace.

"The entire licensing authority will be wiped out entirely," Chairman Smith (D. S. C.) of the committee said. "The marketing agreements will be enforced by regulations applied directly to interstate commerce."

Senator Pope (D. Idaho) a member of the committee, said in a radio speech that "ambiguous provisions, and those of doubtful constitutionality, and those which have proven impractical in operation will be changed."

"The license features and marketing agreements will be restricted to interstate transactions," Pope said, "and a program of co-operation with the states can be set up to deal with the entire industry both in interstate and intrastate."

Wallace during the day signed two milk licenses and a new marketing agreement, and a license for the entire evaporated milk industry, indicating no plans were afoot to suspend the 775 licenses and 37 agreements now in effect. He declined to answer specific questions concerning individual AAA programs, but did say farmers still had legal contracts with the government.

Announcement that new wheat contracts were being drafted was made by George E. Farrell, director of the grain division. He said the results from Saturday's wheat referendum showed 397,840 farmers favored condition.

Undetermined Number Of Persons Are Drowned

McCook, Neb., May 31.—(P)—Undetermined reports that two southwestern Nebraska villages were washed from the map and that an undetermined number of persons drowned reached here today as floods swept southwestern Nebraska, washing out highways, railroads, communication lines and homes.

The Burlington Railroad received word that Parks and Max, Nebraska, two small towns had been washed away. Meanwhile McCook was in darkness without power or light and its water supply limited as the power plant was under water.

By the light of candles and kerosene lamps citizens of McCook attempted to check reports of drownings where Republican river waters swept into the southern part of this city. The storm threw the city into darkness long before evening and the rain continued. One report said six men drowned when a bridge was swept away. Houses were floating down the stream, ordinarily a small river, but tonight more than two and a half miles wide.

Two Burlington railroad trains were marooned by flood waters. One the Aristocrat, No. 6, Denver to Chicago fast passenger train between Fort Morgan, Colo. and Parks, Neb., and the other No. 3 passenger near Red Willow, Neb., east of here. Passengers were said to be experiencing no discomfort.

Washouts were reported at Brush, Colo. Fort Morgan, Colo. Parks, Neb., Culbertson, Neb., Red Willow and other points.

Hundreds of cattle and other livestock drowned and McCook citizens rushed to the flood area to aid in rescue work. Fourteen men were marooned atop the Nebraska Power and Light company's plant. More than a hundred men labored at the plant last night to try to save it from the floods but this morning the water broke through and the plant stopped, leaving this city without light or power and with only a small supply of city water. That was in standpipes and no more can be pumped into the tanks until power service is restored.

Most of the men at the plant escaped the flood waters and late today attempts were being made to shoot a wire to the top of the plant and rescue the other fourteen.

The Illinois commission considered in its meeting today a ruling by the states general court, which held that citizens who failed to obtain citizenship were not entitled to public support.

Body Of Missing Pilot Is Found

Selridge Field, Mt. Clemens, Mich., May 31.—(P)—The office of the adjutant at the United States army aviation post here said tonight that the body of an army pilot, identified as Cadet Milton Lampl, 23, of Wichita, Kas., had been found on the shore of Lake St. Clair near Tecumseh, Ont.

Capt. E. P. Partridge said that from information received at the post, he was very certain that it was Cadet Lampl who disappeared March 10 while flying through dense fog from Cleveland to Selridge field.

"We feel certain," said the Captain, "that Cadet Lampl's plane fell in Lake St. Clair. Our information is that the body found had a parachute strapped to the back."

Ornsby Dawson, 141 Webster avenue, has been critically ill at Our Saviour's hospital for the past three weeks. His daughters, Mrs. Ray Coultas and Mrs. Oliver Woodard of Winchester, and his sons, Roy and Dave Dawson and their families from Chicago, have been called hurriedly to this city several times on account of the gravity of his condition.

Chicago, May 31.—(P)—Roland Mick, 15, of Valier, Ill., inmate at St. Charles reformatory in Kane county, died early today of injuries received when he was struck by an automobile on the St. Charles highway near the institution. The youth died in Illinois Research hospital, where an inquest was to be held today.

BULLET WOUND FATAL

Remove The Brakes

The State Chamber of Commerce is pleading with the legislature not to apply the brakes to Illinois business. There is pending in the two houses in Springfield now some fifty licensing bills that would bring nearly every variety of business under a fee system with heavy state regulations. Who originated this strange idea and why is not generally known, but it was best that business interests through the state grid themselves to resist something which would not only tax them heavily, but also put them under close restrictions.

The bills include licensing of food dealers, milk distributors, advertising firms and numerous others. The members of the legislature seem to have gone on a taxing craze, and unless they are made to understand that the people of this state object to such tactics, the cost of living in Illinois is likely to become intolerable.

The state has become a veritable hungry Moloch for taxes and is reaching out in every direction for new sources of revenue, in spite of the fact that more money is pouring into the treasury than ever before in Illinois history. The people who make their living through legitimate trades and occupations and endeavor to do their share as good citizens can stand so much, and no more. They have about reached the limit of endurance.

The Rewrite Squad

There is materializing in Congress a rewrite squad, composed of men who are tired of the present Constitution, under which this country has prospered for 150 years. They want to change the form of the most liberal government on earth, and they alone know what they would substitute for it. It is doubted if even they could give a clear idea of what the Constitution would look like when they finished with it.

The group is led by Representative Maverick of Texas, a gentleman whose grandfather furnished the name for a Texas steer that developed a tendency to stray away from the herd. We hazard the opinion that when the rewrite squad finished revamping our Constitution, we would have a maverick form of government.

The reason for this sudden zeal to rewrite the Constitution is that the men who are backing the movement could not succeed in stretching the present document to cover everything they wanted government to do. Now the founders of this nation believed in the axiom that "the best government is the least government." That idea does not suit the members of the rewrite squad, but we have an idea it still suits the American people.

Adventure Yet

Miss Leona Jay, pretty young society girl of New York, advertised for adventure. She became weary of attending cocktail parties and wearing society clothes. She wanted adventure, and to get it inserted an ad in the classified columns of a New York daily.

Floods of suggestions poured in, and among them was one from Charles Miller, a Hollywood camera man, that Miss Jay go bug-hunting in Dutch New Guinea. He explained that in that land of jungle and heat the insects are of giant size, the mosquitoes are so vicious that they will eat flesh to the bone, and the snakes are the very worst in the world. If the natives don't shoot you with poisoned arrows, there are dozens of other ways to get killed.

Miss Jay liked the idea and is now awaiting a pair of boots and a pith hat, the regulation jungle armament. She is going where adventure is the thickest, and where one cannot ride horseback because horses can't live in that region.

All of which goes to prove that advertising pays and adventure is still available. It also proves that truth is stranger than fiction, because we remember reading some years ago a story of a young man who sought adventure in some such manner as Miss Jay has done. However, he was compelled to seek it on Manhattan Island, which he could not leave for five years if he were to inherit a fortune. He found plenty to interest him right at home.

Massing Troops

When Premier Mussolini wants to express displeasure he masses troops. He reaches down into the body of conscriptable Italian citizens and culls out a few thousand new soldiers. When Japan wants to express her displeasure she sends a few bombing planes over the territory of the country that has displeased her. In all cases thus far this has been China. When Mussolini wants to send his troops somewhere, he transports them to East Africa to glower across the border at Ethiopia.

Whether all these warlike gestures will mean anything succeeding events will tell. But they do make interesting news, and give the reading public a chance to guess at their real meaning. They are a symptom of disease in the international body, which may at any moment become virulent and make several nations angry and sick. War is a most serious disease that numbers its human victims in the millions. It should be eradicated if possible and prevented even at the sacrifice of some things which individual nations may consider important.

See No Rush of Farm Foreclosures

From The Bloomington Pantagraph. Inquiries made in eastern centers of a number of the nation's leading insurance company executives drew responses without a single dissenting voice, that the insurance companies would not start a rush of foreclosure actions against mortgaged farms, nor demand that the owners immediately come to terms over their debt arrears.

The ink was hardly dry on the decision of the supreme court nullifying the Frazier-Lemke farm moratorium law, until Senator Frazier, one of the authors of the act, proposed an organization of farmers in protest against the prospective rush of farm foreclosures. The action of the holders of billions of dollars in such mortgages indicates that Senator Frazier was unduly alarmed about what the court ruling might mean.

Insurance companies hold a total of one billion six hundred fifty million dollars of farm mortgages. The total of all farm mortgages in the country is estimated at eight billions, hence the insurance companies hold less than one-fourth of the total.

One leading insurance executive laughed at the idea that the insurance company holders of farm mortgages would immediately "step into the villain's role" and begin a concerted action for turning farmers off their farms just because the court had made its recent ruling. Their position is unchanged, this executive said, and he probably voiced the general sentiment among insurance heads. These mortgage holders will co-operate with the farmers. The farmer is doing a good job in the circumstances and the insurance men will help him meet his problems.

The chief effect of the court decision will be to remove a cloud over the entire farm mortgage situation. A small fraction of farmers after all had gone under the provision of the Frazier-Lemke act, since it involved going through bankruptcy, and that is a proceeding which farmers shun. That there have been and will be scaling down of thousands of farm debts cannot be denied. But it will be done in a spirit of friendly co-operation, not by way of drastic treatment of the debtor. On the contrary, many large loaning agencies will look with more considerable attention to the farm loan field, since threats of annulment have been removed.

Worth While Play

If you sometimes suspect that states and cities are inclined to spend too much money on public playgrounds and other recreational projects, consider these figures, compiled by the National Recreation Association.

Last year attendance at outdoor playgrounds in the United States was 300,000,000—a gain of 66,000,000 over 1933. At indoor centers, attendance increased 15,000,000 to a total of 75,000,000.

Meanwhile, the number of cities reporting organized public recreation activities rose from 1036 to 2190, and expenditures shot up from $27,000,000 to $41,000,000.

Increase in expenditures and in total number of playgrounds available was largely due to allocation of emergency relief funds to recreational projects.

Tremendous increase in public use of such facilities can only mean that they meet a very real need. Money spent for playgrounds seems to be money very well spent.

The Athensville community was represented here yesterday by Roy Griffith.

J. R. Cooper of Chapin was a business visitor in the city yesterday.

THE GREATER ISSUE

Mrs. F. J. Andrews is Buried Here Friday

Impressive Services are Held for Well Known Local Resident

Services in memory of Mrs. Ida Simmons Andrews, widow of the late F. J. Andrews, were conducted Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Reynolds Chapel. The funeral was in charge of Dr. M. L. Pontius, pastor of the Central Christian church. It was largely attended.

Two solos were sung by Mrs. A. R. Gregory, with Miss Alice Mathis playing the pipe organ accompaniment.

There was a profusion of flowers in care of the following friends: Mrs. Andrews; Mrs. Harrison King; Mrs. R. Y. Rowe, Mrs. Paul Samuelli, Mrs. A. R. Gregory, Mrs. Mildred Guthrie, Mrs. A. B. Applebee, Miss Ethel Wylder, Mrs. C. E. Cole, Mrs. A. L. McCall, Mrs. W. W. McMaster, Mrs. Henry Goebel, Mrs. Martha Allcott, Mrs. E. W. Brown, Mrs. John Vickery, Miss Ann Dyer, Mrs. Powers and Mrs. E. B. Wiswell.

Interment was made in Diamond Grove cemetery, the casket bearers being William Morgan, Arthur Jackson, Edward Jackson, Richard Dodds, Wade Roach, Ollie Moore, Charles Thrasher and John Vickery. Those from a distance who attended the services were Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Andrews, Mattoon, Ill.; Mrs. W. D. Alexander, Chicago; Mrs. I. S. ## 21 Children Have Perfect Attendance

Twenty-one children attending the Jefferson school in this city went thru the school year without missing a day. They have perfect attendance records, and recognition is given the following boys and girls who have been at school every day:

Will Rogers says: To the Editor of The Jacksonville Journal: Santa Monica, Calif., May 31.—Our state assembly is having a terrible fight. There is 27 "Epics" (End poverty in California) the Sinclair ticket. That's out of a membership of 80 in the lower house. Well the fight is just among these 27. It's a bill to stop all these unemployed flocking into the state. (It passed the lower house). Some EPICS say they can eliminate poverty in the state, but they can't eliminate all the poverty that comes in. Others say that one state can't bar people of other states. All of which gets back to my plan, that is of being able to wire the supreme court and ask them. They reply with a night letter, and the whole thing is settled once and for all.

Over Thousand Women Hear Miss Harris at Final Cooking School Meet

Thirteen hundred and fifty women were fortunate enough to get into the Illinois Theater Friday morning for the fourth and final session of the Journal and Courier Cooking School. Two hundred were content with standing room in the lobby, while between three and four hundred failed to gain admission to the school, to the regret of those in charge.

Never before has a part of the audience been seated backstage at a theater attraction here, but this was true at the closing chapter of the Cooking School. Chairs were placed in the wings around the stage where Miss Lucile Harris gave the demonstration, and in the orchestra pit. Others stood at points of vantage to watch films written on the most successful Cooking School in history in Jacksonville.

Gift of Kitchen Range
Miss Virginia Sutherland, 804 Edgell Road, was the fortunate person who received the electric range, a gift from the Illinois Power & Light Company. Many other women were made happy with fine gifts of groceries and household utensils. Miss Sutherland was in the audience and went forward to claim her fine gift. Miss Harris, director of the school, and her assistant, Miss Emily Conklin, were presented with large bouquets of flowers by the Journal and Courier Company, sponsor of the four day attraction for housewives.

It was with genuine regret that Miss Harris said goodbye to Jacksonville audiences, as she has enjoyed her stay here as much as any in the audience. Discussing the success of the School later in the day, she said this has been one of the largest, most enthusiastic series of lessons she ever has conducted.

Thanks Audience, Firms
Ernest Savage of the Journal and Courier who has acted as master of ceremonies during the School, thanked the audience for its interest, and the cooperating firms for making the attraction possible.

Attendance at Friday's session exceeded all expectations of those in charge. Every effort was made to accommodate the huge crowd, but the theater was packed so densely that many could not get in. The attendance was a tribute to the fine course Miss Harris has afforded, and to the business concerns which have made the School possible.

Miss Harris will return to her home in Fairfield, Iowa, having concluded a long series of Schools during the winter under auspices of the National Livestock and Meat Board. Miss Conklin, her assistant, goes from here to Sheboygan, Wis., to hold a similar school.

The School Sponsors
Firms cooperating in holding the Jacksonville school were the A. & P. Stores, Morgan Dairy Company, Wright Lumber Company, Jacksonville Ice and Cold Storage, Andre & Andre, Gravel Springs Company, Gustine Furniture Store, Hieronymus Manufacturing Company, Hieronymus Brothers, Peerless Baking Company, Ideal Baking Company, Brady Brothers, Montgomery Ward & Company, Boruff-Maytag Company, Red & White Stores, Hopper & Hamm, Capitol Grocery Company, Illinois Power & Light Corp., Illinois Telephone Company.

Ten large baskets were awarded Friday to Mrs. R. E. May, 866 Grove street; Mrs. J. J. Lukeman, 1316 West State street; Mrs. W. A. Walker, 213 Richards street; Frances Mason, Route 4, Jacksonville; Etta Bryant, Jacksonville; Mrs. Guy W. Smith, Box 1, Murrayville; Mrs. Catherine Throver, 336 East Douglas avenue; Mrs. Mary M. Strawn, 615 South East street; Lucille Crawford, 860 West College avenue; Bess Hopper, Route

Behind The Scenes In Washington

Fear of Fascism Viewed as High Court's Reason for Wrecking NRA . . . Congress Is Left in Sore Straits . . . Stories of "Oppression" of Little Fellow Have Effect.

Journal and Courier Washington Correspondent

Washington—Members of the U. S. Supreme Court are almost as isolated from the realm of gossip as the marble busts of former chief justices which adorn their chamber. But not quite.

The justices have secretaries. Many of their ex-secretaries are in the New Deal ranks. The combined group has a fairly definite idea of what goes on in the minds of those nine old men—the emotional background behind cold, legalistic opinions which serve the nation's economic fate.

And although they aren't blabbing it, these young fellows are able to explain why all nine—liberal and conservative alike, with a unanimity which intensified the New Deal's headache—jumped with both feet on NRA in the Schechter case.

The supreme court is sorely afraid of Fascism.

Fascism Fear Uppermost

Averaging over 70 years, the justices have been brought up on the old-fashioned political-economic "system." Even so conspicuous a liberal as Justice Brandeis is noted for violent opposition to concentration of political and economic power.

To establish either Fascism or Communism—so runs the private reasoning of the justices—you must first break down parliamentary authority and local and state autonomy. That autonomy is a bulwark against either. NRA was too huge a dose to swallow. Read the Humphries decision to see how there again the court unanimously acted to curb "usurpation" of executive power toward dictatorship—and even the Frazier-Lemke decision, curbing extension of the federal power over private property.

All of which is the most authoritative backstage explanation as to why the court reverted to its more reactionary decisions instead of pressing on from liberal decisions which had given New Dealers hope.

Some liberals will answer that in curbing federal social-economic legislation it cuts off the hands with which powerful forces and trends now making for Fascism might be throttled.

Left in Blind Alley

Good or bad, the NRA decision is exasperating because it makes future industrial legislation a wasteful, hazardous guessing game. Instead of telling Congress what it could do, the court told what it couldn't do.

It's an old custom which isn't designed to confuse the country, slow up national progress, provide business for lawyers, or drive framers of legislation insane—though it has those effects.

The administration is left to spar around with new legislative attempts until it hits on a formula acceptable to a court which frequently changes its mind. Two years were required to determine validity of the NRA system and it may take as long for a decision on any substitute set-up.

Intrastate commerce may be controlled by Congress only when it has a "direct" effect on interstate commerce, the court says—and leaves it to Congress to guess where "indirect" leaves off and "direct" begins.

"Apparently," says a lawyer high in the administration, "they want us to say in NRA that no code shall apply to any business which doesn't so interfere with interstate commerce as to make its regulation necessary for the regulation of interstate commerce, with the court to decide each time as to each code until we've pricked enough pin-holes in the map to figure out the extent to which we can go."

Moved by "Oppression"
The court could have been more helpful if it had liked. But it felt too many NRA principles were evil, one is told.

It had heard many stories of oppression of "little fellows." Certain eagles came home to roost—notably the NRA practice of letting dominant sections of industries write their own code tickets.

"Would it be seriously contended that Congress could delegate its legislative authority to trade or industrial associations or groups so as to empower them to enact the laws they deem to be wise and beneficial for the rehabilitation and expansion of their trades or industries?" the court asked, as if to dismiss the idea as absurd.

French Comedy to Be Given by Club

MacMurray Players Will Stage "The Bluffers" Saturday Evening

In the homes of the Doctor Malingear and the Ratinois, respectively, will be presented the scenes of the two-act French comedy, "The Bluffers" by R. N. George, which will be given by the MacMurray College Dramatic Club Saturday night. The play will be staged at eight-thirty o'clock, in the college gymnasium, following the alumni banquet and candle lighting service in the dining hall.

The theme of the comedy concerns the pretenses of two middle-class French families of being what they are not, and the conclusions which both families make, as the play unfolds, that all of their pretenses are merely "dust in the eyes" and are not worth the difficulties they have gone through to uphold them.

This play will be one of the cleverest and most humorous presentations which the MacMurray players have produced for several seasons. The brilliant eighteenth century costumes and furniture of the same period will add to the excellence of the production.

The cast includes the following characters and players:
Monsieur Malingear (a doctor)—Mary Daley
Madame Malingear—Helen Wright
Emmeline Malingear (their daughter)—Evelyn Guker
Sophie (their cook)—Carol Whitman

Heavy Rains Leave Dirt Roads Muddy

Even Oiled Routes Now Had In Spots; No Highway In State Flooded

Dirt roads are in bad condition and very few are recommended for travel, the Jacksonville Auto club announced in a bulletin Friday. Some of the dirt roads have been bad in places but in another day or two with fair weather the roads should all be in passable condition.

While heavy rains have been continuous in the central and southern part of Illinois there are no main highways closed and no interference with traffic due to high water.

The Automobile Club of Missouri reports US-40 and US-50 both closed east of Kansas City, Mo. on account of high water. This condition will probably be of short duration unless extremely heavy rains continue. Garden City, Kans., also reports washouts on roads.

Washington, D. C., is approximately 800 miles now with the detour between Dunreith and Richmond on US-40 adding a little mileage. The best route is via US-56 to Indianapolis; US-40 to Washington. All paved. National Shrine Convention here June 8-15.

Montreal, Canada is 1100 miles via Dwight, Kanakee, South Bend, Detroit and Toronto. All paved road. Optional route via U. S. side all the way is also paved but somewhat farther.

Minneapolis, Minn., is 510 miles via Beardstown, Davenport, Dubuque and Rochester. All paved road. Optional route via Keokuk, Iowa City, Austin and Owatonna. Also paved and approximately same mileage.

A GUIDE TO USE WHEN BUYING VEAL

At the Journal and Courier Foods on Parade cooking school were seen some very attractive veal dishes. How to buy veal and how to prepare this very delicately flavored meat was discussed by the lecturer. A study of the veal chart shown here will help to make Foods on Parade more helpful and interesting to women who attended, and it will make shopping for veal easier for everybody. Cut out the accompanying chart and file it in your culinary library.

Retail veal cuts are made in very much the same manner as are lamb cuts. The legs, loin and shank make up the "hind saddle." The entire leg is not purchased for a roast, however, as the leg of lamb is, because it weighs too much for the average family.

Roasts from Leg

Roasts of the desired size may be cut in a steak from the leg. A very popular veal steak is usually called veal cutlet, but don't be surprised if you telephone your market for veal cutlets and get chops. That term "cutlets" is very loosely applied, but strictly speaking a veal cutlet is a slice from the leg. These correspond to round steaks in beef.

The loin is divided into loin and kidney chops. Veal kidney chops are considered a great delicacy. If the kidney is not cut with the chops, these will be just like all the other loin chops. In some markets there is a demand for veal loin roasts. In this case the kidney is left in. This makes a very choice roast.

Veal for Stews

Veal shanks are used for stews and soup. Veal shanks are often cooked with shoulder veal in the preparation of jellied veal because they contain considerable connective tissue which is dissolved out in cooking and gives the stock its jelling quality.

From the fore saddle are obtained the rib chops, the shoulder, the neck and the breast.

The shoulder corresponds to the chuck of veal and it has a variety of uses. Shoulder chops are cut from here. The shoulder makes an excellent roast. It may be boned and rolled. Or the bone may be taken out and the shoulder left flat in the style of a cushion shoulder roast which is filled with dressing and then sewed or skewered to keep the dressing in place.

A Real Economy Cut

The veal breast is a real economy cut which may be made into a roast that any one could be proud to serve and glad to eat. A pocket is prepared in the breast. This pocket is filled with a savory dressing. Potatoes, carrots, or other vegetables may be cooked in the pan with the roast and arranged around it to make a most attractive platter.

Veal does not have a fat covering nor marbling as is found in beef, therefore, strips of bacon are often placed over the top of a roast to give it additional fat.

Roast Veal Uncovered

Only recently has veal joined the ranks of roasts cooked without a cover. It has been found in using the low constant oven temperature now advocated in all roasting that veal may be roasted beautifully. It must not be seared in the beginning, however, because even a short application of a high heat dries out the surface too much.

And a veal roast served with gravy made with sour cream is the height of goodness. Use it in making gravy with chops and cutlets, too. The slightly acid tang of veal gravy made from sour cream must be tried to be appreciated. Words cannot describe with justice this delicious flavor.

Large Crowds View Student Paintings

Exhibit at MacMurray is Attracting Interest of Art Patrons

The art exhibition at MacMurray College attracted many visitors throughout Friday: it will continue open to the public on Saturday from 10 to 12 and from 1 to 5:30, and a cordial invitation is extended to Jacksonville to visit the department.

The spacious studio has its walls covered with the drawings and paintings of the art students, showing types of work in the various media pursued. The charcoal drawings from still life and the antique show a finely specialized technique which projects solidity of form and an analysis of the design made by light on form. Some very interesting demonstrations in lettering problems show one of the aspects of freshman work—the quotations used demonstrating the sound theory that is necessary in successful hand lettering.

Noteworthy also are the life portrait drawings in line which hang on a west wall. They show splendid structure and fine character analysis as well as personality. One of the interesting things about the group of watercolors is the different angle of vision of the individual student as well as her personal technique and approach. The color is pure and clear and based on sound color theory and the creative expression of the individual student is everywhere evident.

A group of freshman tempera paintings on the east wall is a beautiful display of well organized work developed according to the laws of harmony, rhythm, and balance and projected through a formalized design that is very satisfying and convincing.

Two tempera paintings of this type by Margaret Cook and Louise Feldkamp were included in an exhibition of art student work now on tour under the auspices of the College Art Association of New York; and when the show was on display in New York, these paintings and the work in art at MacMurray were flatteringly commented upon in the New York Times.

In the hallway are two screens filled with the work of first year design—a lecture course in art theory which demonstrates the logical sequence and growth in vision and art training. The other screen holds examples of the work done in the class in historic ornament, showing source influence of various styles. But here, as in all the other work of the department, work is based entirely on original interpretation and expression making the exhibition one which is interesting, vital, and in keeping with the intelligent and modern approach to art.

SEVERAL INCHES OF WATER ON PAVEMENT

Water to a depth of several inches flowed over the pavement on U. S. Route 36 east of the city Thursday afternoon in the vicinity of the Mauvaisterre creek bridge. Automobile traffic proceeded with caution for several hundred yards through the low area, which is directly north of the city reservoir dam.

The inch and a half rain Thursday morning put streams out of bank throughout this part of the state. Water poured over both spillways at Lake Mauvaisterre, causing the creek to overflow. The water over the road subsided during the night.

Commissioner Landis Rules Walter Johnson Within His Rights in Banishing Kamm

By Paul Mickelson
Associated Press Sports Writer
Chicago, May 31.—(AP)—Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis today tossed the big family quarrel between Manager Walter Johnson and Third Baseman Willie Kamm right back into the hands of Alva Bradley, owner of the Cleveland Indians.

Although the bed ridden judge did rule after a two hour conference with the two adversaries, that Johnson was within his rights as club manager in banishing Kamm from the team, he refused to give an opinion as to the justification of the "Big Train's" drastic action in releasing catcher Glenn Myatt outright and indefinitely suspending Kamm "for the good of the club."

Johnson, warned by Owner Bradley that he would be dismissed as manager if the commissioner ruled he had exceeded his right as pilot, was jubilant as he left the near northside hotel where the hearing was held. He refused to comment on the statement issued by the commissioner, but he wore a broad smile as he hurried away to Comiskey Park where the Indians met the White Sox this afternoon. Kamm, however, was downcast, visibly worried about his future as a ball player although he half heartedly said he was satisfied with the results of the hearing which he demanded and got.

"I have no doubts but that I'm through as a Cleveland player," he told newspapermen later. "They'll probably trade me or sell me. Maybe, I'll land in a minor league. I'm going back to Cleveland tonight and have a talk with Mr. Bradley."

In suspending Kamm, Manager Johnson accused the third baseman of making trouble on the team and affecting the players with his suggestions and advice. The charge was denied by Kamm, who said he only was trying to help the players succeed.

Kamm arrived at the conference waiting room just before Manager Johnson today. Both spoke to each other and later posed for photographers shaking hands. But they were far from friendly—anyone could see that.

It was the second of three straight bargain bills for both teams and the Giants in particular showed signs of weariness after they had blammed out 22 assorted hits in the first game of their biggest total of the season. The second game wound up in a heavy rain and that apparently cost Carl Hubbell a shutout. Four of the Braves' 12 hits and both their runs were made in that inning.

Every man in the New York lineup made at least one hit in the opening encounter.

Babe Ruth remained out of both games, suffering from a lame left knee, the result of an attempt to go back for a long fly during a recent game in Cincinnati.

Season Over, I.C. Players Seek Jobs

With their baseball season over, the Illinois College graduating players are out looking for jobs. It appears, while the others are winding up their examination schedule and getting ready for summer jobs.

Russ Davis, speed ball flinger, is still considering an offer made by the Boston Red Sox to put him to work this summer tossing in a minor league. Scout E. C. Johnson of the Red Sox staff was in the city Thursday looking over the college players and is said to have offered Davis a contract.

Johnson also is believed to have dropped a few words in the ear of "Swee" Wentland, whose flinging shut Illinois College out of a Little 19 baseball championship. Wentland told Johnson he was looking for a job and Johnson is said to have told Wentland that he was looking for players and advised the North Central southpaw not to do any work with a fountain pen until Johnson had an opportunity to talk to him at home.

Jim Winn also was offered a Boston Red Sox contract, but has about decided to turn it down and accept an offer from "Cap" Crossley who is managing the Cedar Rapids team in the Western League. Winn will be given a trial with the Cedar Rapids team, a job, if he is able to come up to the league standards.

Roy Colin and Tony Paotiti, other seniors on the baseball team, are looking for other positions. Colin seeking particularly a school teaching and coaching position.

WILL RESUME TRAINING
New York, May 31.—(AP)—Cavalade, Mrs. Dodge Sloan's colt which stumbled and threw his rider at the start of the Suburban handicap at Belmont Park yesterday, will resume training in three or four days, according to Trainer Bob Smith.

The English-bred four-year-old suffered superficial cuts in the mishap and it was first feared it would be thrown out of training for two or three weeks. No infection had shown up today, however, with the result Smith announced his charge would make his next start in the $25,000 Defolt Challenge, June 29.

New Minister For McCabe M. E. Ch.

Rev. J. B. Walker Comes to Jacksonville Church From Missouri

Rev. J. B. Walker, former minister of the McCabe M. E. church, has been appointed pastor of the Peoples M. E. Church, Colorado Springs, Colorado, by Bishop Charles L. Mead, Area Bishop of the Kansas City Area, who presided at the Central West Conference, which convened in Kansas City, Mo., last month.

Dr. J. B. Walker, Independence, Mo., came to the McCabe church. He is the secretary and one of the leading ministers of the Central West Conference.

His wife, a classmate and ex-school teacher is a contralto soloist of note, specializing in negro spirituals. She is an ex-district president of Young People's work and is a district and conference W. H. & P. M. Society officer. She will take charge of the young people's music.

Rev. Walker comes on a special mission to save the McCabe church membership and property. Three years ago this church moved from North Cox street, where it had been for twenty-one years, to South West street without the full membership following. Under the leadership of the present minister, they have returned to Cox street, where the membership is taking on new life.

Sunday, following church school, Holy Communion will be celebrated with the minister leading general class meeting. He will speak at night on "Why Set We Here Until We Die?" The members are urged to be present.

Cleveland Indians Capture Series From White Sox by Taking Final Game 6 to 2

Chicago, May 31.—(AP)—The combined pitching efforts of Clint Brown and Mel Harder and a lot of loose play on their own part combined to shove the White Sox deeper into second place in the American League today as the Cleveland Indians won the series final 6 to 2.

The defeat left the Sox a game and a half behind the New York Yankees, who assumed the leadership yesterday, while Cleveland trailed one game further back.

Brown and Harder reversed their usual roles. Brown started the game against young Vernon Kennedy, who also has been used in relief roles, and when he weakened in the eighth Harder stepped in to finish the game. Between them they allowed only six hits.

Marty Hopkins, substituting for the injured Jack Hayes at second base, made three errors, all of which contributed to the Cleveland scoring and helped to upset Kennedy. The pitcher did a fairly good job in the face of difficulties, giving nine hits but passing five.

Continue to Block
State Re-map Plans
Declare No Effort Made to Get Action on Bills

By MILBURN P. AKERS
Associated Press Staff Writer
Springfield, Ill.—(P)—With sine die adjournment but a month away, virtually no possibility for reapportionment—congressional, legislative or judicial—exists at the present session of the general assembly.

Despite the plea for reapportionment made by Governor Horner in his biennial message last January, the legislature has given little attention to the subject.

Chairman H. S. Burgess of Fairfield has not called a single meeting of the senate reapportionment committee and George G. Noonan of Chicago has held but one session of the house committee he heads.

Legislators have been almost as apathetic on the subject. But three bills, one for congressional reapportionment and two for judicial, have been introduced.

Any assembly can reapportion congressional and legislative districts but no changes can be made in a judicial district except at the session preceding the election of a justice in the district.

If the current legislature fails to act, Supreme Court districts apparently can't be changed before 1941.

Demands for reapportionment of the congressional and legislative districts in the past have been strong from Chicago, where the population is proportionately larger than the representation at Washington and Springfield.

Former advocates of reapportionment have pointed out that it would enable the equalization in the population of the districts, in which there is a wide disparity.

Also, the state-wide election of the two congressmen-at-large could be effected by the creation of two new districts.

Johnson Richberg Disagree

Long-Standing Rift Between Men Over NRA Grows
Wider; Johnson's Re-appearance Not Liked.

STUDY NEW PROPOSALS

Washington—(AP)—Long-standing hostility between Donald R. Richberg and Hugh S. Johnson is again in evidence as the Roosevelt administration seeks in a series of conferences to determine what to do about NRA.

Richberg, the chief of the agency, is known to be displeased at the manner of Johnson's re-entry into the NRA picture after the Supreme Court's invalidation of the code structure. The Richberg school of thought also heard with dissatisfaction the early reports—later disclaimed twice by the White House—that the former blue eagle chief had been summoned to take the leading role in preparing a new NRA.

The White House took occasion yesterday to emphasize again that Johnson was but one of many whom the president was consulting on possible methods of retaining aspects of NRA.

One of Johnson's first reactions after the Supreme Court decision was a criticism of the presentation of the

Disclose Plans for Forming G.O.P. And Democrat Coalition

Chief Justice Pattangall of Maine and B. Colby
Reported at Work

Washington—(P)—Two Democrats—Chief Justice William R. Pattangall of Maine and Bainbridge Colby—were reported today to be seeking the formation of a Republican-Democratic coalition to nominate a presidential candidate in opposition to the New Deal in 1936.

Judge Pattangall, the Washington Post says, has sent a letter to a friend here revealing that after resigning from the bench soon he would seek to promote a coalition movement to restore what he called "orderly government."

Colby, who was Secretary of State under Woodrow Wilson, has also taken the initiative similarly, the paper adds. He has proposed that a number of Democratic leaders meet in a southern city, preferably Richmond, Va., "to consider some form of political action that is for our country and above party."

Both men supported President Roosevelt in 1932. Pattangall was one of the few visitors invited to go aboard the president's yacht when the latter sailed up the Maine coast. He was named to the Maine Supreme Court in 1926. He has notified Gov. Brann that he will retire July 15, shortly after reaching his 70th birthday.

Five Persons Die In Burning Home

Were Asleep When Fire Was Discovered by Father

Toronto—(P)—Five children ranging in age from three to 18 years were burned to death early today when flames destroyed their frame home at Alderwood, a little community on the western outskirts of the city.

All of the members of the family, named Scott, were asleep when the fire, from unknown origin, broke out in the wooden building.

The father leaped from the second story window to the ground and the mother threw an infant to him. She herself then leaped into his arms through billows of smoke. It was impossible to reach other members of the family.

The children who perished were Victor, 19; Vera, 12; Bobby, 8; Dorothy, 4; and Sadie, 15 months. Douglas, the only child to be rescued, is three years old.

House Group Pushes Plan for Re-writing U. S. Constitution

Resent Growing Tendency of Court to Overrule Congressional Acts

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington—(P)—A group of house members was said today to be preparing to assemble immediately to canvass the possibility of holding a convention to rewrite the constitution.

Representative Maverick (D., Tex.), who is planning to carry an issue to the nation in a radio address, said today that Representative Keller (D., Ill.), present chairman of the group, would call the meeting "in the next few days."

Describing the rulings of the Supreme Court against NRA and the Frazier-Lemke farm moratorium act as forcing the country back "to a rule of fang and claw," the Texan asserted:

"Legislation can't go on forever being thwarted by the Supreme Court. The question is, are we going to go about it in an orderly way to obtain proper changes in government to insure our having a decent country to live in?"

He said the Court either ought to be deprived of the power to invalidate acts of Congress or some system should be established whereby any act held unconstitutional would become constitutional if repassed by Congress.

Constitutional conventions can be ordered only upon demand of legislatures of two-thirds of the states. Afterward, any change must be approved by three-fourths of the legislatures.

Maverick told reporters that he and others in what is known as the liberal camp considered the convention necessary because the constitution is not in keeping with the need of the times.

A constitutional convention, he said, could be "put through in a hurry" if the "American people would understand that it was a convention to adjust their economic welfare and set up an economic system that's fair, and if they could know that special interests wouldn't control it."

PLAN FORESTRY WORK AND PROTECTION FOR WIND-SWEPT PLAINS

Washington—(P)—A plan to spend $156,298,000 of work relief money in the nation's forests, and on wind-swept plains where shelter belts of trees are contemplated, was put forward today by the forest service of the Agriculture Department.

Asserting that the projects involved could be started without delay and that they would draw workmen particularly on relief rolls in the cities, officials submitted the program to the applications division of the work relief organization.

The work proposed would be done in forty-seven states, Alaska, Puerto Rico and the District of Columbia. Rhode Island was the single state not included, but it was explained that activities would be carried on there with regular forest service funds.

A statement accompanying the application said the program primarily concerned national forests and other lands under the jurisdiction of the forest service.

Wheat Brings Lower Prices

By John P. Boughan

Associated Press Market Editor

Chicago, May 31.—(P)—Lower prices for wheat today followed reports President Roosevelt viewed the supreme court's NRA decision as a neotonal reversal to the horse and buggy era.

Attention of traders focused especially on the fact that the president was reported as indicating the supreme court's opinion, if it blocked any federal control of agricultural production, might result in 36-cent wheat and 5-cent cotton under present world conditions. With heavy selling pressure in evidence toward the last, May and July wheat reached a new low price record for the season.

Talk of a possible squeeze in the month-end settlement of May corn contracts fizzled out completely.

Wheat closed weak, 4-1 lower, Wednesday's finish, July 84-84, corn unchanged to 1 higher, July 78-1, oats 1 off to 1 cent up, and provisions varying from 2 cents decline to a rise of 30 cents.

Until news came regarding the president's talk about the supreme court's NRA decision, the Chicago wheat market today showed an upward price trend most of the time. This trend was largely responsive to strength displayed by wheat quotations at Liverpool, where sellers were scarce owing to a good deal of need of rain in Australia and Argentina.

So to temporary bullish sentiment about wheat were higher prices for silver, as well as indications of a more settled outlook in French monetary affairs for at least the time being.

PEDDLER HAS GOLD: HOW COME? TELLS COPS HE FOUND IT

Michael Suman is a peddler of needles. Friday morning he went into a local store and wanted to buy a shirt. In payment for his purchase he offered a $2.50 gold piece. The proprietor became suspicious and called police. The officers took Michael to the station and asked him some questions. He said he had found the gold piece on the road between this city and Winchester, and that it was in a small pocketbook, which he did not keep. He said he had come into town along the Winchester road, and that Thursday night he slept under a big tree. The police were inclined to accept the story and released Suman, considering that he had merely run into a remarkable piece of luck. The peddler said he took to the road when his work as a section hand ceased to exist. Business was bad, he said. He is a native of Syria.

Summer Sweethearts

By Mabel McElliot © 1935, NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

KATHARINE STRYKHURST, beautiful, 20, becomes acquainted with MICHAEL HEATHCOTE, riding teacher, and acknowledges an unwilling attraction toward him. She is worried over the progress of her friendship, and GIBBS LARKIN, of whom Zoe's parents disapprove.

Katharine and Dr. JOHN KAYE, friend of the Strykhurst family, take Zoe to a night club where she sees Gibbs with a notorious woman. Zoe threatens to kill herself.

That same night Michael is inveigled into taking SALLY MOON, local coquette, to the same place. Sally, arriving home late, informs her father that she and Michael are engaged.

As Zoe goes to bed, Dr. Kaye works all night to save her life and succeeds. Katharine hears that Michael is going to marry Sally Moon.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XX

KATHARINE said, persistently, "I want to get away, Daddy." Victor Strykhurst frowned. "I don't know what gets into you girls nowadays," he complained. "Zoe Parker has to be dragged all over Europe and even when she gets home she's not satisfied; why, you've got everything in the world you want—"

Katharine listened patiently. Stubbornly she went back to her argument. "There's nothing for me to do here. Frankly, I'm bored. I'd like a job."

The snowy eyebrows shot up. "What could you do? No, it's nonsense; I won't have it. People say Katharine hadn't been good to you. And she has been good, hasn't she?"

It was almost pathetic, his desire for approval of Katharine. Katharine thought. Dryly she said, "Of course. But, Daddy, couldn't I have some of my own money now—the money Mother left in trust for me? It will be mine anyhow next year."

The merest shadow crossed his face. "Eh? No, I think that would be irregular. The bank probably wouldn't hear of it."

"I thought you had it in charge?" His high color deepened.

"Little girls shouldn't bother their heads about business. Your money will be paid over in due time."

He rose, terminating the interview. "Buy yourself a new hat and forget about it, my dear."

That, Katharine told herself, wandering out into the morning, was that. She had been a fool to think she could do anything with her father.

But how could she bear Innislock now? Bertine's words of the day before rang in her mind. Was it true? Could it be true that Michael Heathcote was going to marry Sally Moon?

Incredible! Katharine's mind—her heart—rejected it.

BERTINE had said coolly, "Of course the Moons are up in arms. But what can they do? The girl's always been a wild one. And undoubtedly the man's a fortune hunter. Sally Moon will have a very tiny little fortune of her own some day."

She had dismissed the whole matter. Somehow Katharine had got out of the room. No one, she was sure, had noticed. Not even John Kaye, who saw every pass comecome. Strange how empty hours could be when you hadn't anything to look forward to. Swimming, tennis, French lessons—sitting at the wheel of some boat with an attentive, bronzed young man beside you. It was all a dream in which you moved and spoke automatically.

So Michael Heathcote was a fortune hunter! Could she believe that? Michael, with his lean, tanned face and those eyes that were so shrewd and kindly—could a man like that be really mean and base?

Or had he fallen desperately in love with the bundle of feminine fluff and curls that was Sally Moon?

The town buzzed with the sensation for several days. Have you heard? That crazy Sally Moon's gone and got herself engaged to the man who runs the riding club. Of course she's a nobody, my dear, but quite good manners, and so good-looking! Oh, well, the Moons are really outsiders, anyhow. Her mother was a girl in a shop, some place. . . . And so on and so on.

Small town gossip. Picked up again by the lunching, bridge-playing women at the country club, tossed from mouth to mouth.

Katharine thought it would drive her frantic at first. But she steeled herself to it. After a week—two weeks—she found she could bear the thought without flinching.

She had not been back to ride since the formal announcement in the papers. Therefore she had not met the slightly puzzled, unhappy look in the eyes of Michael Heathcote. She had not been compelled to see Sally's triumphant smile or air of possessiveness.

"Well, I know one thing, my dear," she heard Bertine say impressively to Mrs. Romantic. "I know if she brings him to the club I shall complain. I shall certainly expect all the members who know the man to cut him. It's not decent."

Rage had choked Katharine. She had flung herself out of the house, unable to trust herself further.

ZOE was completely recovered now. Lisa Parker took her out to Colorado in late August. Dr. Kaye came out less often these days. His practice was growing.

Bertine had told everyone proudly that he was Park Avenue's most popular specialist.

So Katharine was left more and more to herself. She began to refuse invitations to dinners and dances, including the younger set of Innislock. Such parties bored her. She got into the habit, with out Bertine's knowledge, of putting her sketching things into the car and driving up to Violet Messer's. Even if Violet were not at home, Katharine could set her easel up in the garden back of the little white house and work away busily and happily for hours.

The Messer garden was a pleasant jungle of old-fashioned flowers. Zinnias, nasturtiums, ageratum, snapdragons made a perfect riot of color here. Hollyhocks, gone to seed, leaned idly against the diaphanous walls and within a picket fence enclosure of the drying yard. A rocky path wandered up the hills behind the house. Katharine tore her stockings and scratched her hands on tangled berry bushes. Mint grew in a fragrant carpet behind the asters. It was all old-fashioned and comfortable and satisfying. Sometimes a pair of small girls, sunburned and halloo-ing, would run out to glance over her shoulder.

"Oh, that's lovely! Come. Mummy, see—she's done the bird bath and the roses."

Katharine loved it here. It meant release and escape. Her soul, feeling its inevitable growing pains, expanded in this simple, uncritical atmosphere.

Stanley Messer came back from his western trip and joined the family group without destroying the charm. He was a stooped, silent, gentle man in his late thirties. An artist, Stan Messer, and a good one. The little girls adored him. His wife was devoted to him, anxious for his comfort and happiness.

It was a good marriage—a solid, permanent, companionable marriage. Katharine, observing it, felt that Violet Messer was a fortunate woman. Still Violet had told her one day that Stan hadn't been her first love. No, their coming together had been the culmination of a more mature attachment. Yet Violet was happy. . . . Maybe all the fevers and fury of first love were wasted. . . .

AND yet—and yet—Katharine couldn't bear to see Michael Heathcote just now. Later, perhaps, when she had got over the shock of knowing he was going to marry someone else. When she'd managed to forget those scraps of words she had treasured so foolishly.

"My darling!" he had called her, holding her in his arms, that day Fury had flung her.

Or had she dreamed it? Voices intruded into her day dream. "Katharine, we're going to have tea under the big maple. Want to take time out?"

She put down her pencil. "Oh, tea would be grand!" Lavinia brought the big silver tray with the quimper cups on it and the thinly-sliced bread and the silver pot.

"Anybody want it iced? Stan, you? Or Evelyn?" Evelyn Vincent was an Englishwoman, a friend of Violet's. She came now, balancing her cup, to glance at Katharine's sketch.

"Oh, that's very nice, my dear. Look, Stan, don't you think so?" "Mind if we look, Katharine?" The girl shook her head, smiling. Funny, she didn't mind in the least if these people looked at her work. With Bertine, she would have fairly squirmed.

Stanley Messer, tall and loose-jointed in his white cotton slacks and blue shirt, came over to stand down at the easel.

"Why, this is awfully good. Evelyn, you ought to be able to do something with it."

Katharine, her heart beating very fast, looked from one to the other. They weren't making fun of her; they were in earnest! She had tried so hard to get it all in—the rocks and the drooping gray-green plants clustered about them and the flame and burnt orange of the nasturtiums. . . .

"You've got something there, really," said Evelyn Vincent, who ran an art shop in Fifth Avenue.

For the first time in weeks hope stirred in Katharine's heart. Her "dabbling," as Bertine had always called it, contemptuously, might prove to be a way out for her, after all.
